HISTORY AT THE SMITHSONIAN

DAY 1: WASHINGTON, D.C.

Welcome to Washington, D.C. • Travel by airplane or motorcoach to Washington, D.C. Planned by Pierre Charles L'Enfant, Washington has served as the seat of Congress since 1800. Upon arrival, you are greeted by your Smithsonian Student Travel Tour Director, who will accompany you throughout your stay.

Introduction to the Smithsonian • The Smithsonian Institution is the world's largest museum and research complex. Endowed by James Smithson and created by an act of Congress in 1846, it is dedicated to the increase and diffusion of knowledge. The Smithsonian Institution houses more than 136.5 million objects and comprises 17 museums and the National Zoo in Washington, D.C., two museums in New York City and nine research centers around the world. It extends its global outreach through more than 160 Smithsonian Affiliate museums. The Smithsonian is an institution dedicated to discovery, exploration and learning.

The Smithsonian American Art Museum and National Portrait Gallery • Visit the Donald W. Reynold Center for American Art and Portraiture, which houses both the Smithsonian American Art Museum and the National Portrait Gallery. Both museums use art to explore America's history, combining aesthetic and historical learning. In the Smithsonian American Art Museum, you will peruse the world's largest collection of American art, spanning more than three centuries. The National Portrait Gallery has nearly 20,000 paintings, sculptures, prints, drawings and photographs depicting Americans who have made significant contributions to their country.

Washington, D.C. by night • Experience the magic of seeing Washington's most impressive sights illuminated during your evening scenic tour downtown. Thanks to the foresight of D.C.'s urban planners (who placed strict limits on the height of downtown buildings), you're assured a view of the Washington Monument from nearly every part of the city. Other points of interest on our tour include the Lincoln Memorial, the WWII Memorial, the Korean War Memorial and the Vietnam Veterans Memorial.

DAY 2: WASHINGTON, D.C. ★ MOUNT VERNON

Guided sightseeing of Washington, D.C. • A licensed guide introduces you to the sites where national policies and political reputations are formed and re-formed daily. Observe the quiet dignity of Arlington National Cemetery, the final resting place of more than 200,000 veterans and their families. At JFK's gravesite, you'll see the eternal flame that was originally lit by Jacqueline Kennedy at her husband's funeral. Here you'll also witness the changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknowns. Next, visit the United States Marine Corps War Memorial, which depicts U.S. Marines raising an American flag at Iwo Jima. On the grassy National Mall, which extends from the Capitol to the Potomac River, view the Washington Monument. Visit the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Memorial nearby and finish your sightseeing with a photo stop at the White House, home of every U.S. president except George Washington.

White House Visitor Center • As home to the President of the United States, 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue is one of the most recognized addresses in the world! Learn about the history behind this national landmark at the White House Visitor Center, where you will see the furnishings and social itineraries of the first families who have lived there—from Thomas Jefferson to the Obamas. Follow the evolution of the White House as a center of relations with world leaders and the media, and admire the planning and foresight that has put Washington, D.C. on the map.

Excursion to Mount Vernon* • Travel through the Virginia countryside to Mount Vernon, the lovely retreat overlooking the Potomac where George and Martha Washington lived from 1754 to 1799. As you tour the restored Georgian mansion, you'll see many symbols of the owner's eminence, including Washington's presidential chair. You'll also see the reconstructed slave quarters and Washington's tomb, as well as the elegant estate's 500 acres of grounds and gardens. Be sure to explore the comprehensive Ford Orientation Center and Donald W. Reynolds Museum and Education Center. The interactive displays, short films and high-tech immersive experiences featured in the center depict Washington at three significant stages in his life.

Evening activity • Join us for a special activity tonight. You may take a one-hour Legends of Alexandria tour in Old Town, where an 18th-century costumed guide shows you the way through the streets by lantern and shares ghost stories, legends and folklore about the area!

DAY 3: WASHINGTON, D.C.

Today is your best opportunity to arrange special visits. Please note that these appointments may affect the day's schedule.

U.S. Capitol and Visitor Center • Visit the U.S. Capitol, the city's epicenter and the heart of the American legislature. George Washington laid the first cornerstone for the building in 1793, but the edifice was set on fire in 1814 when British troops marched through the city. Much of the structure was salvaged, thanks to heavy rains that quelled the flames, and the Capitol remains the symbol of American government today. You'll also explore the Visitor Center. This underground facility features an exhibition gallery, orientation theaters, a 550-seat cafeteria and gift shops.

(Please note: Smithsonian Student Travel will make group appointments for guided tours of the Capitol subject to availability.)

where the nine justices of the nation's highest court convene to hear oral arguments and rule on cases that affect the course of law in the United States.

Library of Congress Tour • The Library of Congress is a treasure trove of history, from public records to pop culture to more books than anyone could ever read in a lifetime. More than 1.7 million people make a journey each year to explore the Thomas Jefferson Building, which contains the first book ever printed on a movable press—the Gutenberg Bible—as well as the Waldseemüller map, the first to label our country with the name “America.” As you walk through the Main Reading Room, marvel at the eight marble columns that hold up its elaborate domed ceiling, and see how many of the corresponding 10-foot-high plaster statues you can identify; each female figure represents a concept of civilization, from religion, commerce and philosophy to history, art, poetry, law and science.

National Museum of American History • Explore the newly renovated National Museum of American History. The museum preserves more than 3 million artifacts representing the breadth of American History. The museum's vast collection includes items ranging from Abraham Lincoln's top hat to the Kermit the Frog puppet and Dorothy's ruby slippers. New spaces created during the renovation include collection galleries, artifact walls and vistas of the National Mall and the Washington Monument. The museum also now includes a state-of-the-art Star-Spangled Banner Gallery featuring the original flag that inspired the National Anthem.

Optional Potomac River Cruise (March through summer) • Depending on the season, dine and dance the evening away on an optional boat cruise down the historic Potomac River, a waterway that was explored by Captain John Smith in 1608.

DAY 4: WASHINGTON, D.C. ★ DEPARTURE

Ford's Theatre and Petersen House • Visit the museum at Ford's Theatre, where, on April 14, 1865, John Wilkes Booth shocked the nation by assassinating President Lincoln during a performance of Our American Cousin. The stricken president was carried across the street to the home of tailor William Petersen. At the historically preserved Petersen House, you'll see the room where a 23-year-old doctor worked unsuccessfully through the night to save the mortally wounded president.

The Smithsonian's National Air and Space Museum • The National Air and Space Museum boasts the largest collection of historic air and spacecraft in the world and is a research center for aviation technology and planetary science. Come face-to-face with the original 1903 Wright Flyer, the Spirit of St. Louis (which Charles Lindbergh flew from New York to Paris) and the Apollo 11 command module, Columbia. The 22 exhibit halls cover topics such as Exploring the Planets, How Things Fly and Looking at Earth.

Departure • Head home today, or extend your tour.

★5-DAY TOUR★

U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum • It is estimated that 6 million Jews were put to death as part of Hitler's “Final Solution.” On your visit to the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum, pay tribute to the Holocaust victims and learn more about this time in history as you explore the exhibit “Daniel's Story”—a poignant historical account of the Holocaust from the perspective of a young boy in Nazi Germany. (Please note: Timed passes are necessary for visiting the permanent exhibit, The Holocaust, and availability is limited.)

Optional Theater Performance • Enjoy a theater performance tonight.

DAY 5: WASHINGTON, D.C. ★ DEPARTURE

Today you will visit the Smithsonian's National Postal Museum or the Smithsonian's National Museum of the American Indian.

The Smithsonian's National Postal Museum • The National Postal Museum is housed in the City Post Office Building, which served as Washington, D.C.'s post office from 1914 through 1986. The museum, which opened in 1993, invites people to explore the history of the U.S. postal service through its vast collections, which include postal stamps, postal equipment, archival documents and photographs.

The Smithsonian's National Museum of the American Indian • Inside the first museum dedicated exclusively to the preservation and promotion of the Native American culture, you will find an array of exhibits that present the stories of daily life in the many different tribes of North America through pictures, media presentations and artifacts. See traditional canoes, costumes and totem poles, and meet some of the artists who create them. You'll also discover how Native Americans live today and how they are working to preserve their heritage. The museum supports Native cultural arts not only through its exhibitions, but also symposiums and public programs, out of the belief that art is integral to understanding American history at large.

Departure • Your tour director assists with your flight home.
